DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-40, 62-65, drawn to apparatus (substrate support), classified in class 118, subclass 728.
- II. Claims 41-61, drawn to method (assembly of substrate support), classified in class 29, subclass 25.01.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as apparatus and process for its assembly. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the process for assembly involves coupling a substrate holding structure to a rotational linkage to prevent slippage during rotation of the substrate holding structure whereas the apparatus does not specify rotation of the substrate holder support and thus could be used to assemble a materially different apparatus. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for Group I is not required for Group II, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Further, if the inventor elects invention of group I (apparatus), this application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

Species 1 (Figures 2A – 2D): A substrate support assembly employing an elbow shaped retaining member, a shaft with indentation for receiving the retaining member and a securing member for securing the retaining member in place.

Species 2 (Figures 4A, 4B): A substrate support assembly employing a flexible retaining member.

Species 3 (Figures 4C, 4D): A substrate support assembly employing a retaining member with part of its length being flexible.

Species 4 (Figures 5A-5D): A substrate support assembly employing a retaining member with ears for securing it in a corner defined by two of the spider arms.

Species 5 (Figures 6A-6D): A substrate support assembly having a spider arm slot that accepts a retaining member having two prongs configured to straddle a wall portion defined by the slot.

Species 6 (Figure 7): A substrate support assembly employing a shaped socket in conjunction with a correspondingly shaped shaft.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, at least claim 1 appears to be generic.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the invention and the species (If invention of Group I is elected) that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
